Our Actions

My friends, stand strong in the hours ahead. Do not lose the ground that you have obtained by prayer. There are many things that are looking to dismantle the work in which I have set into motion.

The war that you are facing today is much larger than you are able to understand. I will be victorious in all that I desire to accomplish. I need for you to understand that in the midst of darkness, you will shine for all those to see.

Take hold of My truth and be a voice for righteousness. Do not stop sounding the alarm. Be My voice, and speak all that I have put in your heart to speak. This is not an hour to shrink back ... it is an hour to be on the offence, taking ground each and every day.

Everything that you have learnt is to teach you the authority that you have because of who you are. This is a game-changer for all who are able to step forward and gain the insight that is required. A life that walks in the authority, is a life that I admire, and the devil shrinks back from.

There is no greater moment to see, than that very thing happening. It excites Me to see what was lost, coming forth with a sword that cuts to the chase as to the authority that you have. Nothing can stand in the way when you take your rightful place. It is here where you begin to establish My Kingdom.

At no time did I ever say that it would be easy, actually the opposite would be truer. What I did say was that if you refused to quit you would become victorious in everything that you place your hands upon. Faith is that way, it requires movement on your part before it begins to activate the supernatural.

Your actions speak louder than words. It is the action that creates the unlocking of the very things hidden and obscure. These very things stand as obstacles that are designed for you to have victory over. Your very actions big or small will be the ingredient that unlocks the door where you will gain access to those very areas that you have been contending for.

The part to always remember is that nothing changes until you believe, and out of your belief, your actions are what is required to gain breakthrough. Don't stop until you have attained the very thing that I have placed before you.
